THE PROCESS

CHALLENGES

1. Time lags in getting schemes off the ground - momentum
2. Bundles of phone / mobile / TV and broadband lock in potential customers
3. BT improving or planning improvements to their services can erode the viability of a community scheme.
4. Mapping customer demand – huge variations in people’s broadband service and use.
5. Securing funding
6. Credibility compared with big operators.
7. Community dynamics can change over time.
8. Hard to make a business case if only a small proportion of the community will pay for the service.

REWARDS

- ③ Better broadband – and ability to access more online services
- ③ Increased property prices
- ③ New skills, jobs and capacity
- ③ New businesses/ keep existing businesses
- ③ Community resilience

Information

In summer 2012, a joint report from the Carnegie UK Trust and the Plunkett Foundation called for more action to inspire community enterprise initiatives which deliver superfast broadband services in rural areas. Download the report here and discuss its findings below.
